

WOULD ENJOIN MR. YOUNG

TRAM PEOPLE AFTER MINISTER OF INTERIOR.

WANTS the Court to Knock Out His
Order Stopping Work of Double
Track Laying—Argument on 29th.

The Hawaiian Tramways Company applied in the Circuit Court this morning for an injunction to compel the Minister of Interior to withdraw his order commanding it to cease work on its double track in King street. Papers in the matter are being served this afternoon.

It will be remembered that the Rapid Transit Company applied for an injunction to compel the Hawaiian Tramways Company to quit work, but the court declined to grant it. Then came the physical clash between the two concerns on King street. Next day the Minister of Interior ordered both concerns to cease operations. The Hawaiian Tramways Company refused to comply with this order and its manager and workmen were arrested.

In the suit for injunction the Hawaiian Tramways Company relies upon certain letters it claims to have received from the Minister of Interior some time ago permitting it to go ahead laying double track.

Judge Perry summons the Minister to appear on January 29 and show cause why the injunction should not be issued.

It is stated that the suit was not brought directly against the Rapid Transit Company because such an action in the courts would extend the time limit of that company's franchise.

HARD-HEARTED.

The directors of the Paris Exposition have had the hardness of heart to refuse to exhibit the mummy of Cleopatra, which was found some time ago, and the remains of Osiris, which were found in two places; and the American Architect intimates that they have even rejected an offer of some relics of Jupiter.

ABOUT LADY DUDLEY.

Woman Whose Life is Devoted to the Poor.

The duke of Connaught has been visiting the earl and countess of Dudley at Witley court, their place in Wiltshire. The duke's visit lasted two or three days and he had some capital shooting. The earl and countess of Dudley are much beloved in the neighborhood of their fine home and are delightful as host and hostess. The countess is very accomplished and signs and plays beautifully. She is noted in particular as a singer of Spanish and Italian songs of a mandolin accompaniment. Lady Dudley frequently uses her talent to brighten the lives of the poor and sing for them in the east end of London and in the other working-class districts, where her efforts are entirely appreciated.

At the time of the marriage of this charming and handsome young couple report said that the earl's mother, the beautiful Georgina, Lady Dudley, did not accept her son's bride quite with enthusiasm, though as Miss Gurley her fortune was large. She is a very sweet-looking and pretty young woman, with a slight cast in one of her dark eyes that her friends and admirers declare but adds fascination to her expression. Be that as it may, she is too sensible altogether to believe these compliments prefers shady Lats and likes to have her profile photographed when possible rather than a front face.

AN IMPROVEMENT SUGGESTED.
"I have five invitations to Christmas dinner."

"Where are you going?"
"That's a puzzling question. I think a menu card ought to be sent with each invitation."
